Editing Services: SHIRESPRESS offers a variety of services including Manuscript Evaluation, Copy Editing, Line Editing and Content Editing. Prices are quoted on an individual basis and are subject to change.

"My AP Language class wrote a collection of essays based on National Public Radio's This I Believe series. We received permission to publish them and Northshire's wonderfully talented and professional staff guided us patiently through the process. The quality of our books is excellent, and the service that Northshire provides is outstanding. Our first edition of We Believe This was such a success that we used Northshire Bookstore to publish an annual anthology of personal essays. Thank you, Northshire, for your commitment to quality, service, and the wonderful world of books!"

"Working with The ShiresPress and their Independent Publishing program has been magical. Debbi, their Publishing Coordinator, is super talented and astute when it comes to guiding writers on their design process and laying out their books. Working intuitively and with great precision, she has been completely accommodating throughout. I have the galley proofs already and know that the final product is going to be gorgeous. Quality work--totally indie, totally grass roots Vermont-style publishing that is bringing my words into the world exactly as I want them to be brought in! Thank you to The Shires Press for giving my novel its perfect birth!"

"ShiresPress has made my dream a reality. Their staff have used my passion, my words and their tools to create a book that conveys my message and beliefs about learning and literacy. The process started with Debbi, their Publishing Coordinator, listening and understanding my vision for the project and then brainstorming possibilities to make it happen. When I left our meeting I was excited and confident. Every aspect of the process was clear and concise. They were there to make things work for and with the client. There was always an open line of communication during the entire time. Now that we have a finished product, I can only say how grateful I am to The ShiresPress for all of their support and patience. I would highly recommend using them for any printing project."
